REPORT GENERAL MOBILIZATION

SYRIA ALERTS ARMED FORCES

Allege Turks Plan War

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—The Syrian army was placed on alert today and the cabinet was reported weighing general mobilization in the crisis arising from charges Turkey is planning to attack.

A government spokesman disclosed the army alert, but said it amounted only to a cancellation of officers' leaves. The spokesman denied an Egyptian Middle East News Agency report that a state of emergency had been declared.

The spokesman said the officers' leaves first were cancelled a few weeks ago, then the order was relaxed for awhile and now has been reinstated. The spokesman said no mobilization or even partial mobilization of the army has been ordered.

Two cabinet members who declined to be identified told reporters, however, the cabinet is considering country-wide mobilization.

TURKISH DENIAL
Turkish Minister Adnan Koral met with Acting Foreign Minister Kallias and delivered a note from his government.

It was understood the note denied Syrian charges that Turkey plans "premeditated action" against Syria.

The joint Syrian-Egyptian army command has been holding day and night meetings to plan Syrian military moves.

Syrian forces, estimated to total 50,000 men, were recently bolstered by the arrival of Egyptian troops at Latakia. The number of troops is expected to increase.

Frenchman Wins Nobel Book Prize

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Albert Camus, a French moralist and one of the sharpest contemporary critics of totalitarianism of all kinds, today won the 1957 Nobel Prize for literature.

The 43-year-old author of "The Plague" and "The Fall" was cited for "his important literary production which with clear-sighted earnestness illuminates the problems of the human condition in our times."

Camus was the second youngest author selected by the Royal Swedish Academy of Literature for the international prize.

West Asks Look At Russian Role

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The West worked urgently today on proposals designed to ensure the United Nations inquiry into the Middle East crisis will take a look at the role played by Soviet Union.

This became known as Sir Leslie Munro, president of the UN General Assembly, called a meeting of the assembly's 17-power steering committee for 10 a.m. EDT Friday to begin the first round of debate on the problem.

A spokesman for the U.S. delegation said Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was in conference with his aides this morning on ideas which the United States will advance on how the UN inquiry should be conducted.

The inquiry was proposed Wednesday by Syria, apparently acting in co-ordination with the Soviet Union. Both said a Turkish attack on Syria appeared imminent. The U.S. spokesman said the United States welcomed the proposal and expressed hope it would clarify "who it is that threatens peace in the Middle East."

U.S. sources said the United States will be prepared to offer its own ideas on the composition of the investigating body and its scope.

The meeting of the steering committee was delayed until Friday after some key delegations, including Turkey, insisted they would not have time to receive instructions from their governments before then.

MACMILLAN WILL MEET EISENHOWER

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan will fly to Washington next Tuesday.

An announcement from 10 Downing Street said he and President Eisenhower will discuss world problems, presumably including the Middle East crisis.

Two Alta. Mayors Are Re-Elected

By The Canadian Press

The mayors of Edmonton and Calgary were returned to office Wednesday and three of the four cities voting on the subject rejected fluoridation of water supplies as the province's eight cities held civic elections.

Mayor William Hawrelak, of Edmonton, and Mayor Don Mackay of Calgary, both unsuccessful as Liberal candidates in the last federal election, won handily in their respective mayoralty races.

At Red Deer, where the fluoridation question was the only issue after all civic offices were filled by acclamation, voters approved fluoridation of the city's water supply, balloting 70 per cent in favor.

Calgary, Edmonton and Medicine Hat rejected the fluoridation bylaw.

CONCEDED VICTORY
His opponents, two of them former aldermen, conceded victory to Mr. Mackay Wednesday night.

Clarence Mark had 11,110 votes, Ernie Starr 5,017 and independent Irvine H. Graham, president of the Calgary Property Owners' Association and a last minute entry, got 3,203.

It was the first four-way mayoralty race in Calgary since 1949.

The plebiscite on the fluoridation question was defeated with 26,358 persons voting against it and 26,158 for it.

The bylaw would have required a two-thirds majority to pass.

In the aldermanic race, where 21 candidates contested the eight seats, two incumbents were returned in the first count. Ald. P. N. R. Morrison had 6,995 votes and Ald. Grant MacEwan had 7,755.

The other six seats were to be filled on subsequent counts, not completed this morning.

PARLIAMENT

Sinclair, Fleming Clash

OTTAWA (CP)—James Sinclair, opposition financial critic, today charged Finance Minister Fleming with seeking to "milk taxpayers of unnecessary funds" in asking for an interim money supply to pay government bills for one month.

In a speech laden with sarcasm, he said the request "clearly violates every principle of parliamentary rights."

But, he added, the Liberals were prepared to grant the money—provided Mr. Fleming explained what the new Progressive Conservative government plans to trim from the spending plans of its Liberal predecessor.

WON'T INTERFERE
Conservative members sat silent as the Liberal MP for Coast-Capilano heaped sarcasm and charges against the government. But they whooped and catcalled when he ended his speech by saying the Liberals would not block the vote of supply because Mr. Fleming was "just a beginner at his new job and so we believe he didn't do it wilfully."

The former fisheries minister spoke on a government resolution seeking a total money vote of $305,222,335, or approximately one month's interim supply, it was based on a one-twelfth of the spending program presented by the Liberals at the pre-election spring session of Parliament.

Only a small part of that program was then approved, and an interim supply expected to last to the end of this month was voted.

Mr. Sinclair said the government was holding up reason-ably well, though a price adjustment was necessary on the prairie wheat.

Markets are holding up reasonably well, though a price adjustment was necessary on the prairie wheat.

French Reds Threaten Riots Over Algeria

PARIS (AP)—Uneasy calm prevailed in France today in the wake of a Communist call for demonstrations against the war in Algeria.

Factories operated about normally despite a Communist demand for a strike. Streets were peaceful through most of the day.

Anti-riot police remained on duty, since traditionally street fighting does not break out until factories and offices close at 5 p.m. Right-wing groups have threatened counter demonstrations if the Communists start anything.

OTTAWA PLANS PIPELINE WORK

OTTAWA (CP)—Contracts for construction of the Port Arthur-Kapuskasing, Ont., section of the Alberta-Montreal natural gas pipeline will be let very soon, Trade Minister Churchill says.

He added, in a commons reply to Douglas Fisher (CCF-Port Arthur), that he will look into the possibility of getting some work on this section started during the winter as a means of relieving unemployment in the area.

Polymer Operation Set For Alberta

BOOMING CRACKS
"As the gap widened," he said, "we heard booming cracks—like cannon shots. The cables holding up the first span were as taut as violin strings, while those on the middle span hung slack."

Hayter, a newspaper correspondent, gave this reason for the collapse: "I learned that the slide had been caused by a water pipe rupture in the immediate vicinity of the bridge. Apparently the 42-inch pipe that carried water from a tank on the bridge had burst."

RALLY TO AID OF FIRE VICTIMS

Residents of Okanagan Mission rallied to the assistance of Mr. and Mrs. George Olson who lost their home in a fire over Thanksgiving weekend. Even before the smoldering embers of the structure had been extinguished, scores of people rushed clothing and other household necessities to an emergency depot set up in the community hall. In the above picture, three volunteers are shown accepting the clothing. They are, left to right, Mrs. J. B. Karpenco, Mrs. E. W. Weeks, and Mrs. D. W. H. Hall. A dance is planned Friday night at the community hall to help the fire victims get re-established.

IDEAL PICKING WEATHER

More People Jobless As Harvest Nears End

Another case of "you can't have your cake and eat it."

While apple harvest season started from 10 days to two weeks ahead of normal this year, it is now apparent that seasonal employment will also be over much sooner than normal.

In fact, even as of now, claims for unemployment insurance benefits throughout the Okanagan are about 75 percent ahead of those for last year, according to a National Employment Service spokesman.

Ideal growing weather brought the apples to maturity sooner and good picking weather has resulted in a speedy removal of the crop. Also giving an assist was an ample supply of orchard labor.

Hence, we have in Kelowna, at least, the picture of many transient apple pickers already having left for their homes; no requests from orchardists for pickers for nearly two weeks; night shifts at packing houses already shut down; prospects of complete stoppage in packing operations by the middle of next month, and APPLE SIZES.

Some packing houses may have ceased operations by the end of October, according to reliable predictions.

This situation likely will prevail all through the valley, as circumstances are much the same elsewhere.

Factors contributing to the earlier shutdown of packing houses are the earlier start of the season, the availability of labor and the good size of the apples.

Apple sizes have peaked larger this year, according to a B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. spokesman, who pointed out that packs this season are hitting around 120, whereas last year they ranged from 138 to 150 (apples to a box).

B.C. Tree Fruits also disclosed that up to Saturday night, 1,033,674 boxes of apples had been shipped to market, with over 900,000 of that total being of the McIntosh variety.

Markets are holding up reasonably well, though a price adjustment was necessary on the prairie wheat.

Ruptured Water Pipe Caused Bridge Crash?

Canadian Ships Hunt Subs Off Newfoundland

HALIFAX (CP)—The Chronicle-Herald says ships and planes from Nova Scotia navy and air force bases have been ordered out in an attempt to identify submarines reported off the Newfoundland coast.

The paper says in an Ottawa dispatch that naval ships from Halifax and planes from Shearwater naval air station are assigned to the job.

A defence department spokesman is quoted as saying that if there is a submarine off the Newfoundland coast the navy and air force ought to find it. Newfoundland fishermen and coastal residents have reported seeing what they thought to be submarines on various parts of the island's coast since last spring.

IN COMA A YEAR

Children Think Father Always Been Sleeping

VANCOUVER (CP)—Kim and Kirk Smith think their father has always been asleep. Every night Kim, 2, and Kirk, 3, visit their father, Ralph Smith, in a Vancouver hospital.

Mr. Smith has been in a coma since he was struck by a copper wire while working as a telephone lineman near Chilliwack a year ago yesterday.

The boys' mother, Mrs. Teresa Smith, said her sons do not understand their father's condition. "They think he has been there all the time. They don't remember him."

Doctors have said her husband will remain in a coma for another two years.

"Some cells in his brain are dead and until they are healed he will stay like he is."

HAVE TO WAIT
"I talk to him sometimes and he talks to me. He knows me and the kids. He knows my name is Terry but he only answers questions when he is asked."

Mrs. Smith admits the toughest part is being unable to do anything for her husband.

"I've got used to it now. He will come out of it in time. But I have to wait and it is the waiting that is hard."

Smith is in the same room as Joseph Byl, a Dutch immigrant who will have been in a coma for two years Oct. 25. Byl was killed by a broken choker cable while logging on Vancouver Island.

The workmen's compensation board has paid $38,000 in medical costs for Byl and $18,000 for Smith. Mrs. Smith also has received $215 a month.

Noted Kamloops Specialist Dies

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Dr. Frank P. McNamee died unexpectedly at his office, apparently from a heart attack.

Dr. McNamee, 59, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, was a graduate of McGill University and took post-graduate training in Vienna, Berlin and Seattle.

He practised briefly in Victoria before coming to Kamloops in 1950. He also practised here before the Second World War.

He is survived by his widow, Muriel. Funeral arrangements are to be announced later.

Queen Starts Four-Day Visit To United States

WASHINGTON (CP)—Police Chief Robert Murray said today the Queen's route from National airport to the White House totalled 1,000,000 persons—"one of the greatest in the history of Washington."

WASHINGTON (CP)—Queen Elizabeth flew to Washington today to receive from President Eisenhower, in colorful ceremonies, the official welcome of the United States.

Eisenhower's personal plane, Columbine III, bearing the Queen from a triumphant visit to his home Williamsburg, Va., touched down at National airport at 11:12 a.m. EDT.

The splash and color and pomp of full military and official honors contrasted with the dull, grey autumnal day. But a light rain which had been falling earlier in the morning had stopped.

FLOWERS PRESENTED
A murmur arose from the crowd as the Queen slowly descended the ramp and shook hands with Eisenhower. Mrs. John Foster Dulles, wife of the U.S. secretary of state, handed her a bouquet of two dozen red roses, tied with a red, white and blue ribbon.

Welcome to Washington and the United States, Your Majesty, Eisenhower said to Elizabeth with a little bow from the waist.

Then he took the Queen by the elbow and gently pivoted her around for photographers.

The party smiled and chatted together, posed for pictures and then headed down the receiving line.

At the end of the red-carpeted receiving line, the Queen took two steps onto a raised platform to receive formal honors.

The guard of honor came to present arms, the band struck up God Save the Queen.

Then, side-by-side, a foot apart, the queen and Eisenhower stood while the band rolled out the Star Spangled Banner.

In the distance a battery boomed out the 21-gun royal salute.

Eisenhower made a brief welcoming address and the Queen responded with her prepared remarks.

Thank you for this kind and generous welcome. We are delighted to be here in Washington again.

Arkansas "Expels" Satchmo

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The University of Arkansas student government has expelled a scheduled spring appearance of Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong because of what was termed "the unfortunate remarks" made by the Negro trumpet player on the Little Rock integration crisis.

Armstrong had said he would be glad to play at the university but sorry that Governor Orval Faubus might enjoy the program.

The governor said this week he considers Armstrong "a very fine musician" and hopes he gets serious treatment in Arkansas.

Although Armstrong has made frequent acid references about the racial situation in Arkansas, it was a statement Monday by Joseph Glaser, his manager, that apparently touched off the furor.

Glaser hailed Satchmo's date to play for a university from next March as "a great moral victory."

AT WINFIELD Halloween Party Planned Oct. 31 For Children

WINFIELD — A meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John McCoubrey to discuss having a Halloween party for the children.

The meeting decided to go ahead and a party will be held at the Memorial Hall on Thursday, Oct. 31. It will get underway promptly at 7 p.m. with a fireworks display outside the hall. Once inside the hall the costumes will be judged and prizes awarded for the best costumes in the various age groups.

John McCoubrey, Art Pollard and Ross McDonagh will be in charge of the entertainment.

Mrs. J. McCoubrey, Mrs. A. Pollard and Mrs. E. M. McDonagh will be in charge of decorating and advertising. Susie Hall will be in charge of the music for dancing for the teenagers after the young children's party is over, and Mrs. John Danke is in charge of refreshments. People of the community whose names begin with A-I are asked to bring cakes or cookies and the M's-Z's to bring sandwiches.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Gill of Quenza were visiting families and friends in the district over the long weekend.

Russians Plan Dog Test In Space Flight

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A photograph of a dog travelling through space in a rocket 130 miles above the earth is published today in the Soviet navy newspaper Soviet Fleet.

It shows a husky-type dog strapped in a hermetically sealed cabin in the rocket's nose. Hanging from straps is an instrument resembling a pocket watch for recording the animal's reactions.

An accompanying article by Col. V. Vozdovsky says that six minutes in a state of "dynamic equilibrium" did not influence the dog's behavior.

Author Settles In Okanagan

Roland Goodchild, whose book, "Afghan Adventure" is being published in London by Robt. Hales Ltd., has now settled permanently in Kelowna.

In an interview with a Courier reporter, Mr. Goodchild expressed delight at being back in the Okanagan, which he first visited in 1912.

"There's no place like it," he said. Mr. Goodchild should know, for he has literally written himself round the world, having worked as a journalist in Fleet Street and on newspapers in Sydney, Australia, Vancouver and India.

His first book was published in 1917 after he had been invalided out of the Australian Cavalry. In Egypt he was attached to the Camel Corps and having learned Arabic spent a lot of time in disguise doing special work.

In the second war he joined the Middlesex Regiment and again saw action in the east. In the last eighteen months of the second war he was loaned to the ministry of supply and toured England lecturing. It was because of his eastern experience that Mr. Goodchild was commissioned to write "Afghan Adventure" which deals with the extraordinary secret service work of Major John Fox in tracking down a huge ring of arms smugglers in Baluchistan and Afghanistan. The book has a preface by Inspector Ellis of Scotland Yard, who was Fox's Commanding Officer in the special investigation branch.

Returning to Canada after the war, Mr. Goodchild wrote special features for the Vancouver Sun and other papers. He is now working on his autobiography for Hales. "No Moss For My Plow," and when that is done hopes to make his next book one with a setting in British Columbia, and more especially, the Okanagan.

"After all," said Mr. Goodchild, "the Okanagan was my first love, and one always has tender feelings for one's first love. I hope to die in the Okanagan, but not just yet, because I've got a lot more writing to do."

Proposed Hydro Plan Compared Two Kitimats

VANCOUVER (CP) — The proposed Peace River hydro development can be compared to four Grand Coulees or two Kitimats, lands and forests minister Ray Williston told UBC students.

The minister explained developments planned by the Wenner-Gren interests in B.C.'s Rocky Mountain trench area.

He said the Peace River area

THE DAILY COURIER THURS. OCT. 17, 1957 2 is the largest source of hydro power in the world today.

Power distribution from the huge 4,000,000 horsepower plant will be handled by both the publicly-owned B.C. power commission and the private B.C. Electric Company, Premier Bennett said.

At the same time he said "substantial" royalty and taxation returns from the project would flow into the provincial treasury. He was unable to estimate how much the royalty and taxation returns would be.

However, he said, the Wenner-Gren interests would pay a full water rental tax on the water it uses for generating power and would pay complete sales tax on all the equipment and installations used on the project.

Canyon Rapids "Placid Pond"

VANCOUVER (CP) — Werner Krupp, 27-year-old shipyard worker, dismisses the frothy rapids of Vancouver's Capilano Canyon as a placid duck pond for any canoeist worth his salt.

But he and his friend Franz Conrad are using the canyon as a practice stretch for a crack at the much riskier Fraser River in 1958.

Blith immigrants to Canada—Krupp is Swiss and Conrad is German—have made preliminary application to enter next year's canoe race 450 miles down the churning Fraser from Fort George to Vancouver.

As well as the re-enactment next July of Simon Fraser's historic river voyage 150 years before, the British Columbia centennial committee has announced a race of one-man canoes along the same route, which includes Fraser Canyon and the treacherous Hell's Gate. There will be $5,000 in prize money.

Only expert canoeists, those who qualify by standards set by a committee of judges, will be allowed to enter the test of skill, stamina and courage.

Krupp, who came here 5½ years ago and married a Vancouver girl, is a "No. 5 white waterman" in European rankings, meaning he is an outstanding ing canoeist who has gained the second highest rung on the paddler's ladder.

A No. 1 white waterman would be just a pond paddler, and a person really doesn't call himself a canoeist until he reaches No. 3 ranking. No. 4 is above average and qualifies for entry in all international canoe races.

Conrad, a 30-year-old structural engineer who came here in 1952 from Germany, is not officially graded yet. But Krupp, as a No. 5, has the right to tackle any river body that is termed "nearly impossible" to navigate. The No. 6's—the few that are still alive—quality to try the impossible.

Centennial "Party" Is Definitely Planned

GLENMORE—A meeting of the Glenmore centennial committee was held in the Glenmore school, called to decide if there should be a celebration in the Glenmore area. It was hoped that there would be a fairly good representation from all areas of the municipality but the main attendance came from the upper section.

Members of the executive brought the meeting up to date on developments and it was stated that the centennial project, namely the addition of a stage to the recreation room at the school, was well in hand and just needed the final "go ahead" signal from the B.C. centennial committee in Victoria for work to be started.

Discussion on a celebration for Glenmore was extensive and the meeting felt that there should be some sort of observance and that it should be centred around the new stage. It was left in the hands of the executive to see what could be done in the way of a concert and other entertainment using local talent as much as possible, the executive to report back to another meeting at a later date.

The Glenmore Cub Pack was host to the Westbank Cub Pack. Games were the main attraction of the evening, but a work period was also held. Cubmaster M. Black of Westbank brought sixteen cubs over and that added to the twenty-eight in the Glenmore Pack kept the leaders fully occupied for the evening. A return visit will be held in the near future.

Home for the holiday weekend visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Dalcol, was Audrey Dalcol, who is in training at St. Paul's Hospital.

Mrs. L. Purdy has returned to Glenmore after spending the last two weeks with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. V. Sauer of Red Deer, Alberta.

Miss Phyllis Robertson spent the holiday visiting her mother, Mrs. V. Robertson, of Bankhead.

Visiting their family for the long weekend were Mr. Frank Hawkey and sons, Gordon and Noel, of Sechart.

Receiving congratulations from their many friends on the birth of a daughter are Mr. and Mrs. M. Duckett of Princeton. Mrs. Duckett is the former Myrtle Motherwell who resided in the Glenmore district for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Morrison and son, John, travelled to New Westminster for the Thanksgiving weekend. Holidaying with his son and daughter-in-law is Mr. W. J. W. Morrison of New Westminster.

Mr. and Mrs. K. H. Wilson and their children Laurie and Kenneth spent the weekend in Vancouver.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Cam Lipsett over the holiday weekend were the former's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lipsett of Vancouver, and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Thomson of Vancouver, the latter being Mr. Lipsett's sister. Other visitors were Dr. and Mrs. Barry Lipsett of Pioneer, B.C. Dr. Lipsett is Mr. Lipsett's nephew.

Lethbridge Painter In Italy

Written for The Canadian Press By JEAN COHEN

ROME (CP)—A Canadian artist, a Siberian dog and a Sicilian man-servant are the new tenants of a penthouse apartment in Trastevere, the district on Rome's west bank traditionally inhabited by descendants of the early Romans.

The artist is Roloff Beny, effervescent, curly-haired painter-photographer from Lethbridge and Medicine Hat, Alta. Since he first left Canada in 1948 after graduating in archaeology from Trinity College, Toronto, Beny has achieved recognition in several art centres.

PLANS STUDIO

With time off for visits to New York, London, Paris and Canada, he has lived and worked in Italy for most of the last nine years. Now he has just moved into a lavish Tiber-side apartment, with the man-servant and a Husky dog acquired in Flin Flon, Man. The six-room flat overlooking the Palatin and Aventine hills is hung with originals by Dugy, Matisse, Henry Moore and Roloff Beny.

His current pre-occupation, apart from planning a spectacular studio addition to his apartment, is a 250-page volume of photographs of the Mediterranean countries. It will be published in Britain and North America next March.

SIX YEARS' WORK

The volume, entitled The Thrones of Heaven and Earth, has been some six years in preparation, and included a picture-taking odyssey covering more than 10,000 miles by transport as diverse as donkeys, camels and Egyptian planes "patched together with adhesive tape."

The hardest part was selecting 195 photographs from a collection of more than 1,000.

Beny says the book is not a travelogue, but an imaginative study of subjects that appealed to him in his tour of ancient civilizations. Accompanying the photographs are commentaries by Jean Cocteau, Rose Macaulay, Stephen Spender and other well-known writers, all personal friends.

CANADIAN TOUR

Soon Beny hopes to resume work with palette and brush. "I have always painted when I wanted to because I wanted to," he says, "and right now I'm longing to get back to it."

How long will he stay in Italy? Well, Beny has leased his Rome apartment for five years.

Canada's Responsibilities On UN Safety Council

The United Nations General Assembly has voted by a very large majority to place Canada on the Security Council. Of the 78 nations participating, no less than 72 supported the Canadian candidacy. This is an impressive tribute to the work of our diplomats in international organizations and perhaps in some measure a recognition of the useful role played by Canadian representatives during the Suez crisis of a year ago.

It is also in a real sense a mark of confidence. Nations that feel aggrieved or imperilled by the actions of their neighbors commonly appeal in the first instance to the Security Council. There is obviously a widespread feeling that a Canadian on the Council is likely to be a man capable of taking a reasonably detached and objective view, because he represents a country with remarkably few axes to grind in world affairs.

From this standpoint Canada's election, for the second time, as a non-permanent member of the Council is a matter in which Canadians can take legitimate pride. It is well to recognize, however, that this is the sort of honor which imposes on the recipient burdens and embarrassments unmatched by any very impressive material advantages. For some nations a seat on the Security Council is a prize well worth a diplomatic struggle. A country may, for example, have a particular interest to protect or cause to advance. It may, in the first flush of independence, be anxious to demonstrate in the United Nations its capacity to play a considerable role in world affairs. Or it may campaign for a seat in the belief that its claim to the leadership of some regional group is likely to be enhanced by membership in the Security Council. But Canada does not fall into any of these categories.

On the other hand, it is only too easy to foresee some of the difficulties and embarrassments that are bound to be the lot of Secuity Council members in the next two years. A number of the disputes that the Council has dealt with in the past and will, almost certainly, be called upon to deal with again involve other members of the Commonwealth. The problem of Kashmir is one such case. Both the Indians and the Pakistanis tend to regard this as a life-and-death matter. Few Canadians would care to take sides on such an issue. But it is the responsibility of the Council to make decisions. When Kashmir was last before the Council it became the unpleasant duty of most members to announce publicly that Pakistan had a legitimate grievance and that India was in the wrong. This is not the most promising way of building friendships in Asia.

Even in situations that do not involve members of the Commonwealth, decisions may be extraordinarily difficult. For the issue may, unhappily, divide nations allied in NATO. Canadian representatives will have some very unhappy moments if the United States parts company with France on Algerian policy and if the African war is subsequently brought to the Council's attention by neighboring Arab nations whose peace is threatened.

This is not to suggest that Canada would have done better to stand aside in favor of some other candidate for the Security Council vacancy. Such an argument would be a mere gesture of nostalgia. We have as much to lose as any nation from war or international anarchy. We have, for various reasons, considerably more influence than some others of comparable population and should, in consequence, be able to do more to prevent these calamities. We may or may not relish the responsibilities cast upon us by membership in the Security Council, but it is futile to deny realities. The truth is that for a country in Canada's position there is no easy escape to the international back-benches.

Responsibilities Of Freedom

Recently Mr. Grant W. McConachie, president of the Canadian Pacific Air Lines Limited, made a significant contribution to the deliberations of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce at that body's annual meeting in Victoria. The following paragraphs are drawn from the prepared paper presented by Mr. McConachie:

"It is truly said that the greatest present danger of our way of life is our own complacency. This is particularly true in times of prosperity when we are inclined to take our freedom for granted and to assume that the present system is part of the permanent order. And yet the statement of the great Edmunds Burke was never more accurate than it is today—the only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is that good men do nothing."

"If we are content to take our privileges as free men for granted we expose our way of life to the inroads of the more militant creeds of socialism and communism. We also invited the further encroachment of government in business and tolerate the trend to state control."

"We can never be safe in assuming that the free enterprise system will survive by default. It will endure only by our own vigorous and enlightened efforts to combat the enemies of freedom."

"When we are inclined to fall into the error of complacency it is useful to view our world through the clear window of historical perspective. We then realize that compared with tyranny freedom and enterprise is only a few minutes old..."

"Without freedom and the competitive stimulus for creative thinking provided by free enterprise democracy, we could never have achieved the degree of civilization and of prosperity which we take for granted in Canada at the present time."

"We can discover eloquent testimony to the truth of this statement in the experiment with Socialism which restricted individual liberty in the United Kingdom after the War. Even the traditions of one of the most firmly established democracies in the world were unable to protect the British people against the pressure for conformity required by the socialist government."

"The historic institution of Parliament itself was menaced... Even before the Labour Party was voted into power, one of its most eminent prophets, Harold Laski, expressed his view that during the transition to Socialism, the Government must not risk the failure of its program by election of the Opposition Party. He stated that under such circumstances, continuance of parliamentary government would depend on whether the conservative party would guarantee not to repeal socialist legislation in the event of an election."

Following a brief historical review which included happenings in the United Kingdom under a form of socialism, Mr. McConachie went on to point out that the threats to our system were not limited to foreign philosophies:

"We have our own home-grown hazards and perhaps the most insidious of these here in Canada is the trend towards too much government. In an increasing number of activities there seems to be a theory that the government can look after us better than we can look after ourselves. It started with the notion of the welfare state but seems to be spreading until we find the state invading the territories of private business."

"This intrusion into business and industry is tolerated and even welcomed by many in the belief that somehow these government enterprises benefit the people in contrast to the 'selfish profit' motives of private enterprise."

"Actually, as we all know, a government enterprise and particularly a government monopoly suffers from all the weaknesses of socialism: the lack of competitive drive, the virtual elimination of incentive, the removal of consumer choice and the absence of any effective yardstick of efficiency."

OTTAWA REPORT

Queen Shows More Poise

By PATRICK NICHOLSON
Special Correspondent of The Daily Courier

OTTAWA — The success of Queen Elizabeth's second visit to Canada was assured even before she left the airport on her arrival.

We could see at once, as she chatted with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and inspected the guard of honor, that the shy stoney-faced little princess of 1951 had blossomed into a laughing, poised and friendly queen in 1957.

As the days of her short visit spun past, her frank smile and cheerful little wave captivated the hearts of the ever-growing crowds cheering her drives through Ottawa.

Her coast-to-coast tour in 1951 never, to be frank, got off the ground. The Princess had been trained to the aloofness of her class-conscious and closely-knit little island kingdom. She was faced by the unconscious-unclassiness of North America. She was accustomed to seven million Londoners living within a nickel belt ride of her palace, able and willing to see their sovereign frequently. But here fourteen million Canadians, spread out over a country thirty-eight times the size of Britain, were anxious to learn about their future sovereign for the first time. The royal party resented as aggressive thrustfulness the eagerness of newsmen and photographers, who knew that for many Canadians their words and pictures must take the place of the personal observation possible in tiny Britain.

RESERVE SEEN IN 1951

I was the only newsmen who travelled with the Princess for five weeks, along her whole 12,000 mile journey. In 1951, I watched her at every public engagement from her arrival at Montreal airport to her sailing from Newfoundland's stormy Portugal Cove. I was for example the only newsmen who skipped off the royal travel train and made my own travel arrangements to enable me to see chilly Moose Jaw give her its warm welcome.

On that tour, a barrier seemed to be set up around her by her poker-faced reserve. But what none of us knew only the Princess knew, was that her father, the King, was then so near death that she might never see him alive again. Small wonder that her naturally gay little smile was frozen.

But this year, with the assurance of her own regality and with the added maturity of six busy years of responsibility, she has won over the previously estranged hearts, and magnificently reassured those who were always "Queen's Men".

A REAL HUMAN WOMAN

She came nearest to our ideas of human simplicity on the evening of her arrival, when she received 500 newsmen and our wives at Government House. There were no stuffed shirts at that cocktail party, and protocol was thrown out of the window as she left the receiving line to mingle and chat and share jokes with her guests.

"Why, it's a real human woman," commented a visitor from New York with obvious astonishment.

At the National War Memorial, after solemnly placing her wreath, our trim-suited Queen broke away to chat with the veterans and the amps with warm personal interest—again a very human woman.

Her fireside chat to the nation was unmatched for sheer virtuosity by any television talk ever seen over the CBC. The Queen worked hard that afternoon to prepare her speech herself, determined to counter Lord Altrincham's criticism of her subservience to her "tweedy advisers."

Some of those accompanied the Queen to Canada, breeders of the cold clique and frigid snobbishness, ashen-complexioned oldsters looking and acting like professional mutes.

In those supreme ten minutes of her talk, the Queen escaped from her tweedy cage; found herself; and showed us a warm heart, an understanding mind and a real humanity, as she brilliantly projected her personality into our own homes. Her native land will welcome as a changed person this woman who has found her real self here in five days as Queen in Canada.

This Capital greeted her with almost casual curiosity; but it was with genuine affection that we sorrowfully bade her "au revoir."

Personally Speaking

By VENERABLE D. S. CATCHPOLE

GENTLEMEN: THE QUEEN!

How often this toast has been given! And all present have risen, touched glasses, and answered: "The Queen! God Bless her!"

If this column comes out in its proper order, the article published in Post will be old stuff, but that does not greatly matter since the controversy is not in itself new. May I ask your consideration of some thoughts which I have about this matter?

For one thing, I have not long returned from England and I was one of those who, while the Queen was not in residence, was not seldom in the neighbourhood of "Buck House" as the Palace is often called. Indeed, I attended a garden party after receiving an invitation from Her Majesty through the Lord Chamberlain, and so passed through a hall of the Palace and wandered about the gardens together with some 7,999 other people. I saw the Queen, the Prince Philip, the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret.

Mr. Malcolm Muggeridge's article may have some truth in it for all I know, but the fact remains that the Queen reigns, as Mr. Muggeridge well knows, with the approval of her people. Mr. Muggeridge appears to think that he and Lord Altrincham are right and everyone else is wrong. It is a matter of opinion. Speech is free, short of libel, but seeing that it is free I do not doubt that these two gentlemen will hear some opinions which they will not like.

I doubt very much whether British people want to scrap the Monarchy and go in for the sort of thing one sees and hears about in some other countries. I grant you that there is glamour in the Monarchy and, for one, am grateful for it. I love colour and sparkle. There is enough drabness about human life without having the Queen and her attendants appearing in drab costumes, without pomp and circumstance.

Certainly, as Mr. Muggeridge says, the Queen does not rule, but she is a symbol, and what should we do, in life, without symbols?

I read that snobbishness stems from the Throne and I have no doubt that there were snobs at the garden party at Buckingham Palace. There are, however, snobs in other places; yes, snobs in labour circles and snobs in business, snobs in the church and snobs in all quarters; musical snobs and intellectual snobs; poor snobs and wealthy snobs; and if you don't agree you don't know mankind.

"I read that we cannot afford to provide income for royalty. So what should we do? Away with all the trappings, say Lord Altrincham and Mr. Malcolm Muggeridge. Let's get down to a real democratic mediocrity. Away with the young squire at Buckingham Palace Gate! Away with the Horse Guards, the Changing of the Guard and the Trooping of the Colour! Away with Coronations and coaches and pageantry! Let's take all the sparkle out of life and submerge ourselves in grim grey or black! Let's have a president and his wife whom we can call Phil and Bess. We shall be so much happier that way!"

I wonder if these gentlemen who wrote what has been described as such thoroughly nasty prose imagine that they are enlightening us. Do they think we do not know that the royal phrases are empty so far as power to rule is concerned? Of course we know it. We also know that our system is a better system than many a system of government which we see as we look about the world. It is sheer stupidity to judge everything by mathematics and by cold logic. You are dealing with people and people are most unpredictable. They like things which are, or appear to be, quite foolish: the glitter of the Life Guards on parade, for instance. We know the guard at Buckingham Palace is not the scarlet-coated soldier but the policeman who is never far away; but we like the sentry in scarlet and buff. And at Coronations we like to see participants in glorious apparel but take no joy in viewing a lot of elderly men walking about dressed like the proverbial undertaker. The women know better.

Mr. Muggeridge may be right in many of the parts of his diatribe which is the more unpleasant because directed at one who cannot reply; but for me, since I know what Britain can do in time of stress, and how tough she can be when the pageantry is stripped away, and how courageous these royal figures can be in time of peril: for me, no matter how foolish I may be in Mr. Muggeridge's eyes, it is still: "Gentlemen: the Queen! God bless her!"

Geologists Seek Lake Erie Gas

PORT COLBORNE, Ont. (CP) —Geologists are attacking the shallow bottom of eastern Lake Erie in what is believed to be the first large-scale overwater search for natural gas in Ontario. And they're not worried about competition from western natural gas destined to flow into the province via the Trans-Canada pipeline. The theory is that there's a ready market for all the gas that can be produced.

Britain Plans New H-Tests

LONDON (AP) — The News Chronicle says Britain will carry out a new series of hydrogen bomb tests over Christmas Island this winter.

The report says: "The H-bombers will drop three or more H-bombs each equal to more than 1,000,000 tons of TNT."

"But the bombs will be designed as warheads for intercontinental rockets."

Kelowna Credit Union Advances Rapidly

Mark International Credit Union Day With Striking Record Of Achievement

Fourteen hundred Kelowna district citizens celebrate a striking four-year record of achievement today.

They mark with 300 British Columbia groups International Credit Union Day, but for their own organization, the record of the past four years is a mighty two-fold tribute to their co-operative effort.

The group — Kelowna and District Credit Union — since 1953 has achieved:

1. A great hike in membership from 300 to 1,400, with new members joining at the rate of one per day.
2. An impressive increase in assets from $48,000 in 1953, to more than $400,000 in 1957.

BROTHER'S KEEPER

Also, today, they have the satisfaction of knowing one of their own fellow-B.C. credit unionists has been honored by the Credit Union National Association with the title of "International Brother's Keeper."

The honor has been bestowed on A. L. Nicholas, of Vancouver, by CUNA for his unselfish volunteer service to credit unions. Canadian Press reported the announcement in Madison, Wisconsin international headquarters Wednesday.

Nicholas is 65 and a retired postal worker. He was chosen from among candidates of the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico and Hawaii.

The association said Nicholas' work included assisting in the organization of about 30 credit unions. Treasurer-Manager R. C. Gore told The Daily Courier Kelowna Credit Union's quarters at 511 Lawrence Avenue is considered one of the most modern in the province.

MESSAGE FROM IKE

Mr. Gore, with credit union treasurers throughout Canada has been the recipient of numerous messages of congratulatory and encouragement from national leaders in Canada and the United States.

Both President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Diefenbaker have lauded the fellowship. The President's message, dated from the White House, Washington, reads:

"Greetings to the members of credit unions of the Western Hemisphere as they join in the observance of International Credit Union Day on Thursday, Oct. 17."

"By providing materials, guidance and training in credit techniques to groups in many countries, much progress is being made in the wise management of money, in the promotion of self-reliant economies, and in helpful understanding between peoples."

"I hope the celebration of Credit Union Day will become increasingly meaningful to a wide community around the world."

PM'S GREETINGS
Prime Minister Diefenbaker said: "... I am very pleased ... to send greetings to the two million Canadians who are members of over 4,000 credit unions in this country."

"I have for a long time been a warm supporter of the Credit Union Movement. I know very well what a good job it does. Credit Unions in Canada provide very worthwhile benefits for their members and also play an important social and economic role in this country."

"I would like to commend to my fellow-Canadians the principles of mutual assistance and thrift which underlie the Credit Union Movement."

Vancouver's Mayor Hume has lauded B.C.'s credit unions and expressed pride in "the outstanding work being done."

PUBLIC SERVICE
Victoria Mayor Scurrah declared B.C. credit unions are "performing a public service of the highest order."

Premier Bennett, in a letter to "B.C. Credit Unionist" states the 300 B.C. groups boast a membership of 150,000 with accumulated savings of $60,000,000, and of that number some 8,000 school children in the province have saved $190,000 "a particularly promising accomplishment."

The premier said he "believes in giving credit where credit is due, and it certainly is due to North America's 11,000,000 members and their officials of the 23,000 sound savings organizations today observing the 10th Annual International Credit Union Day."

Kelowna treasurer Gore said W. J. D. Short is president of the local credit union and Ruth Beaton is vice-president. Credit committee chairman is Stan Thompson and George Mills, supervisory committee chairman.

Centennial Project Is Approved By Council

PEACHLAND—Council approved, in principle, the plans of the centennial committee for renovation of the Athletic Hall as the centennial project. Of the $2000 estimated to be required, the provincial government will, if the plan is approved, contribute $423. The balance of $1,577 would have to come from tax-levy as this money would not be available until 1958. Council moved a motion of intention of providing a sum not exceeding $1,577. The council will also request that the centennial committee delay any work on the building until after the heavy use of the hall is over during winter months. The council was appreciative of the progress made by the centennial committee to date.

TYPICAL MILL CREEK SCENE

This is a typical type of scene that can be observed if one is to stroll the banks of Mill Creek, between Abbott Street and the mouth. Most people fail to realize the scenic beauty of nature that can be found by simply stepping out of the back door. CCF Leader Stanley Knowles Will Pilot Four Labor Bills In House

OTTAWA (CP) — Four measures dealing with labor were introduced in the Commons yesterday by Stanley Knowles, the CCF member for Winnipeg North Centre.

A major one called for employers under federal jurisdiction to pay their workers for two weeks' holidays annually after one year of service. About 450,000 workers are in this category.

Mr. Knowles' bill collides with one forecast in the speech from the throne Monday and to be sponsored by Labor Minister Starr. Informants say this one will provide for two weeks vacations after two years and one week before that.

Another bill sponsored by Mr. Knowles would make it mandatory on employers under federal jurisdiction to pay workers for eight statutory holidays and to pay them on the basis of overtime rates if they have to work these holidays.

A third would necessitate a minimum wage of $1 an hour, the same amount sought by the Canada Labor Congress. The federal government now has no general minimum wage legislation.

Mr. Knowles' fourth bill was a renewal of his perennially proposed legislation to impose the voluntary revocable checkoff of union dues on employers. This would call on employers to deduct dues from a worker's payroll and turn them over to the union.

He told the association's 40th annual convention here that the government had "shackled" hospital boards in dealing with employees' wages. The government, in effect, told hospital boards "what they must or must not do in bargaining."

"And yet, while shackling the hospital boards so that little or no discretion is left to them, the government refuses to accept any responsibility for the decisions arrived at, even though those decisions may be the result of an arbitration which the hospital is compelled legally to accept."

Nurses in two B.C. hospitals for the first time voted to strike in wage negotiations this year.

Mr. Abrahamson said hospitals believe the government is responsible "to find a solution that does not consist of repudiating all responsibility when hospitals have to bargain with labor."

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Minter and son, of Chilliwack spent the holiday weekend at the home of Mrs. Minter's mother, Mrs. W. F. Schell.

Grits Pass Up Chance Non-Confidence Vote

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader St. Laurent yesterday passed up the chance to present a motion of non-confidence in the new Progressive Conservative government.

Speaking at the opening of the Commons throne speech debate, he said that if such a motion were carried against the government, which lacks a House majority, the government would have no opportunity to carry out its election promises.

Such an opportunity should be given, the 75-year-old former Liberal prime minister said, in closing out a 40-minute speech. He added that the Liberals will not support any non-confidence motion on the throne speech debate.

presented by the CCF or Social Credit parties.

Mr. St. Laurent's statement means that the Conservatives, with only 111 of the 264 Commons seats, will not be defeated on throne speech motions. The Liberals have 108 members.

O'Reilly's Men Ready On Eve of Puck Opener

Influenza, injuries and McKenzie, in that order, seem to have had little effect on Packers' coach Jack O'Reilly's puckish sense of humor.

On learning of the Kamloops Chiefs' line-up for tomorrow night's opening league game against the Kelowna Packers, O'Reilly grinned and said, "Well, it looks to me like Kenny was so busy making sure he had Sasakamoose, he forgot about the rest of the club."

As an afterthought, he added, "Of course, the Old Man might fool us yet, you know."

NOT UNDERESTIMATING
Kelowna and Kamloops open in Kelowna at 9 p.m., and Vernon travel to Penticton for the other OSHL curtain raiser.

Coach O'Reilly was not underestimating the Chiefs from the north, however. Owner Ken McKenzie is not generally known for the inferior quality of his hockey clubs, O'Reilly said.

The line-up McKenzie sent down to Kelowna as his Friday night team included: Jim Shirley, goal; Fred Sasakamoose, Lloyd Hinchberger, Bob Dawes and Kernaghan; forwards, John Millard, Bud Evans, Bill Hryciuk, Dick Warwick, Bill Warwick, Mark Marquess, Jerry Prince, Ron Leopold and Don Slater.

SCORING PUNCH

Marquess will probably provide the answer to the problem for a man to work with the Warwick duo, and should provide McKenzie with plenty of scoring punch on the trio.

Leopold is a former pro, named to the spot which was to be filled by Howie Hornby. This trio, plus the Pony line, will give the Chiefs three lines of good potential.

In the Packers' camp, 'flu is still running rampant, with Orv Lavell laid low, Harry Smith out of the line-up temporarily, and Andy McCallum sweating it out in an attempt to best the bug.

Defence man Al Pyett picked up a nasty cut last night when he stopped a deflected slap shot with his eye, and will probably have to have about four stitches, but will be back in the line-up for Friday night's game.

PACKERS' LINE-UP

Ray Powell, starry centre man, is suffering from a pulled groin muscle, but is still working out with the club, and will be in the line-up on Friday, also.

O'Reilly mentioned both Howard and Hicks as possible starters.

OSHL Officials Named By Chief

The men who will guide the destinies of the OSHL this year have been announced by referee-in-chief Bill McCulloch of Penticton.

A unanimous decision by league delegates agreed to go along with the referee and linesman system, and two referees have been named officially, Gordon Hamilton and Bill Neilson.

Linesmen, named by the cities concerned, will be Johnny Culos of Kelowna, Al Pippolo of Kamloops, George Morrish of Penticton and an official to be named by Vernon.

Hamilton, whose home has been Calgary for the past two years, has worked in the WHL for four years as a linesman, and as part-time ref for the past two. He comes highly recommended by Al Leader, president of the WHL.

NOT A STRANGER

Not a complete stranger to Okanagan hockey circles, Hamilton worked the last two semi-final games between Kelowna and Kamloops, and the finals between Kamloops and Vernon. Neilson is no stranger to anyone who has ever watched hockey in the valley, since he has participated actively in the game since pre-war days, both as a player and official.

A native of Winnipeg, Neilson came to the valley in 1939, and with the exception of a couple of jaunts to the outside world has remained here ever since.

Culos, Pippolo and Morrish all worked the lines in their respective arenas last year, with Culos receiving the approval of all delegates at a league meeting, as being a competent and alert official.

Ref-in-chief McCulloch expressed the belief that this year's set-up would get rid of a lot of the hassling that went on last year. He agreed heartily that such conduct as officials walking off the ice in the middle of a game should not be permitted to happen.

"Nothing like that will happen this year," he said. "We have chosen what we feel to be competent officials. Neither referee is chief, but both are responsible to me, and I will pass on my information and judgement to the league."

The league opens tomorrow night, with Kelowna hosting Kamloops and Penticton hosting Vernon. Kelowna's game time is at 9 p.m., and will continue to be that time as long as the stores remain open late.

IN ACTION TOMORROW

This trio will be seen in action again tomorrow night, when the Kelowna Packers host the Kamloops Chiefs in an OSHL curtain-raiser, at 9 p.m.

The action, taken from one of last year's games, shows the Chiefs' net-minder, Jim Shirley, watching for the puck, while Packers' Jim Middleton, centre,

Bright Almost a "Shoo-In" For Ground-Gaining Record

REGINA (CP)—Johnny Bright, power fullback with Edmonton Eskimos, is just 36 yards short of equalling the ground-gaining record for one season established in the western football conference last year by teammate Normie Kwong.

Figures released today by Bill Hawrylak of Regina, WIFU statistician, show Bright with a net gain from scrimmage of 1,404 yards. With three games still to play, the former Drake University star seems assured of setting a new record.

Bright's total is well ahead of that for runner-up Gerry James of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who has netted 886 yards rushing.

Kwong is third, 32 yards behind James, but the Bomber fullback has a game in hand. By Bailey of B.C. Lions is fourth with a net gain of 716 yards while Edmonton's Jackie Parker has moved up to fifth with 656 yards.

Parker has the best average carry among the top 10 ground-gainers with an average gain of eight yards on 82 carries. Bright is averaging 6.5 yards on 216 carries, and Lewis 6.4 on 88.

Don Getty is showing the way in pass completions. The Eskimos quarter has completed 63 of 102 aeriels for a completion average of 6.17 per cent.

Lion Maury Duncan has completed 53.2 per cent of 172 passes, while Winnipeg's Ken Ploen has completed 53.1 per cent of 111.

Calgary's Nobby Wirkowski has completed 52.6 per cent of 133 passes and Saskatchewan's Frank Tripucka has completed 50 per cent of 288.

Tripucka has thrown the most touchdown passes, 12. And has had the most interceptions, 23.

Paul Cameron of B.C. is the league's top pass receiver, catching 27 of 28 aeriels for the leading per cent of 96.4. Saskatchewan's Larry Isbell has caught 27 of 29 and teammate Stan Williams has latched onto 25 of 27. Calgary's Dean Renfro leads in passing yards. He has caught 20 of 27 aeriels for 508 yards and an average of 25.4. Calgary's Jack Gotta and Saskatchewan's Ron Dundas have caught the most passes, 28 apiece. Lions

Yankees Start Purchase Trail To World Title

NEW YORK (AP)—In the first promised step aimed at bringing the world baseball championship back to New York, the Yankees today purchased four farmhands including Ryne Duren, leading pitcher of the American Association.

The Yanks also bought the contracts of first baseman John Jakluc, shortstop Fritz Brickell and lefthanded pitcher Ed Dick.

Duren, who was acquired in the June trade that sent Billy Martin to Kansas City and brought Harry Simpson to New York, won 13 games and lost only two for Denver. He was the league leader in percentage with .867.

Jakluc batted .320 for Richmond of the International League. Brickell wound up with .285 for Denver and Dick compiled an 18-9 record for Binghamton of the Eastern League.

Minor Hockey Best Draw Card In City-For Players

By GEORGE INGLIS

Kelowna's minor hockey season opens tonight at the arena, with the midgets, juveniles and juniors working out from 8-10, following the senior hockey practice, but for the men at the helm there are a few knotty problems to iron out yet.

One of the biggest problems is the fact that the kids really took them seriously this year when they said "turn out", and they practically swamped association president Emile Bouchard and Verne Johnson, who were registering.

There are still a lot of boys who took out forms and haven't returned them, either, according to Mr. Bouchard. The association agreed they would extend the deadline one week until next Saturday, but any names not in then are going to be left off the list.

President Bouchard, in his third term at the helm of the minor puck group, is beginning to wonder if he doesn't have a tiger by the tail. The interest in hockey is growing by leaps and bounds, and this year's interest represents one-third more kids than last year.

Last year, the association experimented with the proposition of splitting the ice sheet in half for the Pups. Their reasoning was that the kids needed the ice time more than anything, and their unsure gait was more adapted to the small sheet of ice.

In spite of a lot of opposition by those who felt it would be detrimental to the boys to learn on the smaller rink, the association went ahead with it, and it turned out to be a howling success. Twice the number of boys were able to participate a large part of the reason why 380 boys could be accommodated for a winter of hockey on one ice sheet.

This year, by all appearances, the schedule committee will have to be about as skillful as a Philadelphia lawyer to get all the boys fitted in.

Judging by past performances, they will.

IT'S OFFICIAL

Word received yesterday from the OSHL's ref-in-chief, Bill McCulloch of Penticton, is that there will be two refs and four linesmen working the league this year. Both refs, Bill Neilson and Gordon Hamilton, are known to OSHL fans, with Neilson being practically a fixture in Okanagan arenas.

Born in Winnipeg, and schooled from a tender age in the parks board league of organized hockey, Neilson came out to the valley before the war, and dug himself in. That was back in the days when there was only one arena in the valley, the Vernon one, and the games—and practices—all took place there.

A wild and woolly, rushing defence man, no one in their right mind would ever accuse Neilson of being a Fancy-Dan, but he was a better than ordinary hockey player, when not serving sin-bine time. It was a most unusual step for his kind of hockey player to take, stepping into the ranks of the men with the striped shirts, almost like a gangster turning in his mool for an F.B.I. badge, but he made the grade in his new job.

Not too easily ruffled, Bill has been persuaded the odd time to forget the color of his shirt, and engage in a melee with vim and vigor, but for the most part he accepts the acid comments of the mob with great aplomb.

Hamilton worked in the OSHL play-offs last year, coming here in time to finish off two games in the Kamloops-Kelowna semi-finals, and finish out the finals between Kamloops and Vernon.

A native of Flin Flon, he played his junior hockey with the Bombers there, played one year with their senior club, then turned to refing, in the Saskatchewan Hockey League. After two years as a junior ref, he turned "pro" with Al Leader, president of the WHL, and served as a linesman with them for four years. The last two years of his career under Leader were in Calgary, where he refed as well as handled the lines.

Hamilton comes to the league well recommended by Leader, and his work here last year seemed to indicate he could handle the job. He is planning to live in Kelowna, provided he can find some work in a retail store of some sort. Anyone interested in hiring him can contact him at the Regatta City Auto Court.

LOCAL LINE SCANNERS

The league will go along with the one ref, one linesman program they had last year, with each city having been asked to name a linesman.

Kelowna has named Johnny Culos, the young fellow who handled the chore last year, and drew the plaudits of every team in the league for the job he did.

Both Kamloops and Penticton have named the same men, Al Pippolo and George Morrish, respectively, and Vernon will name theirs as soon as they choose him.

Culos, the 23-year-old field general who sparked the Orioles to their league championship in baseball this summer, is a career hockey official. A beautiful skater, he flies up and down, the ice, keeping right on top of the play.

The lull between periods is merely the sign for Johnny to confirm some opinion of his regarding the rules, occasioned by some incident in the period before. Even though he knows practically every sub-section in the rule-book by heart, he whips it out in the rest period, and checks to make sure.

He believes it is better to be sure than surly.

NEWMAITKET, Eng. (Reuters)—A "well-backed" North of England horse, Sandrine, today won the Cesarewitch Stakes run over 2½ miles. He paid 100 to 8. Ridden by champion jockey Douglas Smith, the five-year-old chestnut gelding went to the front half a mile out and resisting all challengers won by half a length from another Yorkshire-trained horse, Morecombe, 100-7, with Predominate three lengths away, third of 24 runners.

NEWCOMER TO CANADIENS Stan Smrke is the only newcomer to crash the lineup of the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens this season. SPOTTED FASHIONS

Winfield Wedding Of Wide Interest

WINFIELD—A wedding of wide interest to Winfield and district was solemnized at St. Edward's Church, Saturday, October 12 at 10:30 a.m., when Mona Shirley became the bride of Raymond Frank Holitzki. Rev. John Miles read the marriage vows for the youngest daughter of Mr. Dave Edmunds and Mrs. Sybil Edmunds, of Winfield, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Holitzki, also of Winfield. The church was decorated with mixed shades of chrysanthemums for the occasion.

For her wedding the bride chose a floor-length gown of white chiffon fashioned with a long, fitted, softly gathered bodice which fastened down the back with a multitude of tiny covered buttons. The "V" back and front neckline was outlined with a wide band of Chantilly lace, and the very full skirt of chiffon over layers of net and satin stood out gracefully over crinolines.

Her finger-tip veil of illusion was held in place by a mother-of-pearl tiara and her elbow-length gloves of net were embroidered to match the lace on her dress. Carrying a bouquet of red roses and white mums, the bride also wore her groom's gift of a gold crucifix.

She was attended by her only sister, Mrs. Eva Harrison, who was gownned in a floor-length chiffon dress in a delicate shade of aqua. Fashioned with a fitted softly-ruched bodice, wide gathered straps formed a "V" neckline, and the very full skirt was composed of layers of net and satin over a crinoline. Her head-dress was a circlet of aqua net with a bow at the back, and studded in front with mother-of-pearl. She wore aqua gloves and carried a bouquet of pinky-mauve baby mums.

TRIO OF BROTHERS
Mr. Leonard Holitzki was his brother's groomsmen and two other brothers, Mr. Paul and Mr. Gerald Holitzki, ushered. Mr. Paul Weir was the soloist and Mrs. F. J. Ratcliffe presided at the organ.

At 6 p.m. a reception was held at the Okanagan Centre Community Hall attended by 125 guests. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Edmunds chose a blue-gray tail-

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

"How Can I Help My Wife?" Begs Man Whose Wife Has Hysterics

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: We have been married nearly five years. My husband is Latin and I am Anglo-Saxon. We met and married when I was two thousand miles from home, serving in the Air Force. Less than two months later I was sorry we had.

Friends and relatives would summon him to drinking parties and he would respond; saying that I, as his wife, had no right to object. To save our marriage, we moved closer to my home; but he wasn't happy about that, and, in less than a year, we returned to his town—where the drinking pattern was resumed.

Now, once again we are back in my town, and tensions are mounting. He seems to resent my family and several times has insulted them. I have worked as a nurse since we married, and my varied hours are difficult for Jose. I know. But he doesn't try to co-operate. I tend to all our needs as best I can; but he explodes if I overlook a detail—such as scraping carrots when he's asked me not to; or forgetting the salt. He says I don't respect his wishes. If I plead that I'm tired, and can't help just a little, he says I am "talking back."

He says I am all mixed-up, have made a mess of the marriage and that he should have left me a long time ago—if he had any sense.

MAN WANTS ALL THINGS HIS WAY

I must account for every penny, while Jose brings home an armload of beer a day. I'm never allowed to touch his salary, and for a time he even demanded that I turn over my check to him. One of my greatest wishes was to have children; but after marriage Jose told me there was a chance he might be sterile; though he hasn't checked this to be sure. Instead he says our children would be neurotic anyway. If this is so, and I am such a sorry wife, is it advisable to end this difficult relationship? Or should I try to make the best of it? As long as I do everything his way, and act the puppet he wishes me to be, he is amiable enough.

If it will help to be a doormat, perhaps I should stay. Then again maybe I am doing him more harm than that way. I just don't know any more. Perhaps I am even more confused than he says. R.G.

ALLIANCE LACKS SUBSTANCE, SOUL

DEAR R.G.: There's no use pretending that this is much of a marriage; for it isn't. You have an alliance of sorts with Jose—but without much substance or soul to it. And maybe that's the

Author Writes During Night

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Taylor Caldwell, woman author of 17 best-selling novels, works at night.

The 57-year-old writer who moved here with her family from England at the age of six published her first novel, Dynasty or Death, at 37.

Today, her husband, Marcus Reback does the research for her books; they discuss the plot together and Miss Caldwell writes the story. "I go to work about midnight and write until five or six in the morning, when I go to bed," she said in an interview. "My husband goes to bed at midnight."

Her best-known novel is This Side of Innocence. The film rights are reported to have brought $350,000.

pumphouse on the Peace to the refinery on nearby Taylor Flats had burst during the night, saturating the entire bank, and weakening the ground structure.

An army engineer said the 500-foot centre section of the suspension bridge was sagging, and "could go anytime".

Shifting clay and sand around the 25,000-ton northern anchor caused the collapse.

As a crowd of 3,000 persons watched, the anchor began to tilt as loose soil gave way and the span fell taking with it most of the northern approach. No one was hurt.

Road blocks were put up by soldiers who sent traffic to a small ferry 10 miles downstream.

The collapsed span took out telephone and telegraph wires to the Yukon but a temporary line was strung over the natural gas pipeline to give and communication.

The Peace River bridge, one of 133 on the Alaska Highway, was built in 1942 when the United States Army was constructing the northern road.

"ON SPOT SURVEY"

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Peckes said today alternate routes are being sought to keep traffic moving on the Alaska Highway.

Mr. Peckes said a Montreal consulting engineer is flying to the scene to make an on-the-spot survey.

Premier Bennett of British Columbia had offered use of the new railway bridge several miles upstream from Taylor Flats. This would require construction of seven miles of new road and planing over the bridge, for which rails have not yet been laid.

Feasibility of using this railway bridge now was under study. A ferry 10 miles downstream from Taylor Flats was being used day and night.

NO DELAY IN GAS

VANCOUVER (CP) — Closure of the Alaska highway suspension bridge will not measurably delay operations of Westcoast Transmission Company Limited, a Westcoast official said.

D. P. McDonald, vice-president of Westcoast Transmission, said the loss "will not significantly affect completion of the construction program by Westcoast and Pacific Petroleum Ltd. for delivery of natural gas to the West-coast pipeline."

ber of Egyptian troops now in Syria remains a military secret. British and American estimates of the Egyptian troops in Syria range from 1,000 to 1,600 men.

Officials said arms have been issued to "resistance" organizations in Hama, Aleppo, Latakia, Hama, Damascus and northern villages near the Turkish border. These organizations are civilians, largely students, supposed to have received some training in handling arms.

CITIZENS CALM

Army chief of staff Maj. Gen. Ait El Zani said:

"Syria has taken all necessary measures to defend the country against any aggression and we are fully determined to fight back against aggression from any direction."

Damascus citizens meanwhile remain calm and display no outward signs of tension. The streets were filled with shoppers and the customary queues formed outside cinemas.

BRITON SKEPTICAL

LONDON (Reuters) — A foreign office spokesman said today he does not believe "there is any danger at all of Turkish aggression on Syria."

The spokesman told a press conference: "What we feel is that the Middle East needs a period of calm, not the endless alarms and excursions of rumors and imaginary future events."

Asked what he believes is the purpose behind "these alarms and excursions," the spokesman replied "propaganda."

IRANIAN THREAT

TEHRAN, Iran (Reuters) — Foreign Minister Aliqoli Ardalan today threatened to break off diplomatic relations with Syria unless Syria withdraws charges that the United States is planning a coup there.

STOCKS AFFECTED

LONDON (Reuters) — The delicate Middle East situation dominated sentiment on the London stock market today and there was an all-round decline in prices.

Selling was not heavy but prices were marked down as a precautionary measure. There was almost a complete absence of buyers.

GRAIN FIRM

CHICAGO (AP) — Ominous international developments resulted in mostly firm prices for grains and soybeans on the board of trade today.

Trade fears of war in the Middle East caused general buying in all grains and soybeans with the exception of oats.

important because it will help strengthen the "ties of friendship between these two countries."

These British-American ties, Eisenhower said, "have been tested in the crucible of war when we fought side by side."

Eisenhower said the U.S. had looked forward eagerly to the visit.

CROWDED PROGRAM

Thousands of government workers and school children, given time off for the occasion, joined the cheering onlookers lining streets decorated with British and American flags. Many came from nearby states to join the metropolitan-area crowds.

The first afternoon event today for the Queen and Philip was a trip to Arlington, Va., to place wreaths at the tomb of the unknown soldier and at the Canadian Cross.

Then there was little more than time for a change of clothing before a reception for 2,400 at the Statler Hotel, given by Washington correspondents and photographers.

Tonight's event is a white tie state dinner at the White House.

ries on the hand-picks to meet the threat of competition from the American fruit distributors.

A spokesman for a large packing house here said night shifts were concluded last week. Packers are cleaning up the Mac crop now and working on the Delicious apples. Still to be picked are the Winesaps.

Picking order for the large Winesap crop went out just a few days ago. When this crop is packed, the packing houses are expected to shut down.

Most will reopen in December sometime, or even in January, for packing of the Newtowns.

PLAN CAMPAIGN

This year's overall apple harvest is expected to go over the 6,000,000 boxes mark, a bumper crop. Last year the total was around 5,500,000.

Faced with the prospect of early unemployment for fruit workers, the National Employment Service is mapping out its annual winter work campaign.

It consists largely of an appeal to employers and private persons to hire labor during the winter when it is available, rather than waiting until the summer when it is at a premium.

Meetings already have been held with interested groups and organizations. The NES "plan now" program is expected to be introduced shortly.

"GARDEN" PARTY FOR 18,000 PEOPLE

Mike And Liz Will Rock New York

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Mike and Liz Todd are set to rock the town tonight with their "intimate little party for a few friends."

Already the splurge in pink and blue spangled Madison Square Garden is sure to be remembered for causing the wildest Broadway ticket scramble of the season.

"You'd think with 18,000 invitations to pass, everybody would be happy for once," reports host Todd. "Instead, about 60,000 people are peevish at me."

Besides those packed into the vast arena for the show-dance-swing-giveaway, television spectators will view 90 minutes of the festivities over the CBS coast-to-coast network starting at 6:30 p.m. MST.

The party is a salute to the first anniversary of the premiere of Todd's prize-winning film, "Around the World in 80 Days."

Mrs. Todd, sometimes known as film star Elizabeth Taylor, will be on hand for one moment of high formality. She'll mount a specially built stairway to cut the birthday cake—a baked confection 30 feet in diameter, 14 feet high, coated with pale blue icing.

The 18,000 guests include a cluster of movie celebrities (Frank Sinatra, the French star, is coming over from Paris just for the night), Texas Rangers and Australian beauty queens.

Everybody has been asked to dress in evening attire.

"Liz insists on black tie for all the guys," Mike notes. The programmed entertainment includes a 74-piece symphony orchestra conducted by Arthur Fiedler, a couple of circus elephants, a spectacle called "dancing waters" and a troupe of performing palomino horses flown in from California.

The food menu includes 15,000 hot dogs, 10,000 Chinese egg rolls, 500 gallons of cider, endless pizza pies, 15,000 doughnuts.

Gifts have been contributed to the party and Mike plans to make sure every guest gets at least one memento. Todd glows as he considers all he has wrought. After all, previously entertained 3,000 people in a London museum park, and 2,000 humans caged lions at Cannes to celebrate "Around the World."

"If it was easy, I wouldn't be interested," Mike asserts. Happiest note of all is the nautical aspect. The television rights, it is reliably bruited, will let for $300,000.

"Mike is apt to make a bit out of it all," a Todd lieutenant observes.

Australia To Change Coat-Of-Arms

SYDNEY (CP)—Thirty years ago some unidentified humorist chose the hour before a big official function to string a line of dead rabbits across the entrance to the Australian Parliament House in Canberra.

The rabbits hung between the big stone emu and kangaroo that make up the Australian coat-of-arms on the building, and the joker's point seemed to be that the kangaroo and the emu no longer truly represented the country.

Prime Minister R. G. Menzies has just announced that the coat-of-arms is to be changed. He said however, that the kangaroo and emu would be retained in a new form.

Manufacturing interests here believe the new design will recognize that Australia is no longer only a primary producing country. More than half the population of Australia now live in its six main cities, which are the chief manufacturing centres.

Fine of $25, plus costs of $5, was imposed in city police court on Robert Allen Rothenberger, 23 Penticton, for exceeding the 30 miles an hour speed limit on Harvey Avenue.

Amazing Drug Relieves High Blood Pressure

STON (AP) — Two Massachusetts Memorial Hospitals have announced discovery that they term an "amazing" drug for relieving high blood pressure.

Robert W. Wilkins, 50, president of the American Heart Association, and Dr. Wil. Hollander, 32, announced a new drug, called chlorothalidate, at a press conference.

Hypertension or high blood pressure affects some 20,000,000 persons, they said. The drug, they said, has been tried on 51 patients during the last eight months.

The drug has been effective on patients who failed to respond to all other forms of treatment, the doctors said.

Wilkins said that the key discovery of the effectiveness of the drug came about through a study of kidneys.

He said it has been known for some time that the kidneys as the salt content of the blood, are somehow connected with hypertension and that kidney disease produces high blood pressure.

The doctors said that it appears that chlorothalidate has a double action: it very effectively reduces body fluid and salt; it also reduces blood pressure itself.

The physicians said that the most striking characteristic of the drug, however, is its ability to step up the action of other anti-hypertensive procedures.

"When chlorothalidate is added to other therapy," Dr. Wilkins said, "it has a striking effect. It shows to best advantage as an adjunct."

Dr. Wilkins said: "We don't know just what the kidney has to do with high blood pressure, but it's right in the middle of the picture and we feel chlorothalidate will help us get the answer."

"We feel chlorothalidate will open the way for a host of new drugs just as we were running out of theories on how to combat high blood pressure."

Dr. Wilkins said the experimental class of patients was given three pills each a quarter-gram daily for the last eight months. Each patient, he said, showed a remarkable relief of hypertension with very few side effects.

Backache Neurosis, Says Doc

By FRANK CAREY
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A pot-bellied man and the woman are the same. They are prone to painful backache or subject to aggravation of an existing one, a Vancouver, B.C. surgeon says.

Dr. Frank Patterson, a Vancouver General Hospital reporter at the 43rd annual clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons, also said that this type of backache is frequently due to emotional conditions, with the tension of the person resulting in a tearing up of the tissues.

Dr. Patterson said that approximately 10 to 15 per cent of all backaches are of neurotic origin, he said.

He declared that, conversely, a lot of people get neurotic because they have a pain in the back. . . . and relief of the discomfort may change their personality reaction to it."

Dr. Patterson indicated that in cases where the backache is due to some underlying physical disease or condition or emotional stress, certain "exercises" as a purpose are helpful—lying on one's back and raising the legs, or, from the prone position, placing the hands on the head and raising the head and shoulders.

These exercises are designed to strengthen the abdominal muscles and thereby offset the back pain, he said.

WE-IN MODERATION

Other exercises, such as walking, golf, is good treatment if moderate, but strenuous exercise of any kind is taboo, because it will nearly always aggravate the backache, he said.

Dr. Patterson declared that backaches are common in the elderly—not because of the aging process in itself, but because "increasing age, poor posture and inactivity go along with age."

Regular moderate exercise in the elderly would prevent a lot of such cases of backache, he said.

Mr. Herridge today placed on the Commons order paper a motion that he will move a resolution to this effect.

FLOWER CROPS

Farm Life Colorful For Pair

HARROW, Ont. (CP)—Farming is a colorful occupation for Ralph Wright and his son Donald. They grow annually 250,000 gladioli spikes and 15,000 chrysanthemum cuttings in all colors, as well as other crops.

Mr. Wright says the flowers require more attention than the peaches, cherries, apples, prunes and vegetables he also grows, but the flowers provide work for eight employees and a profitable return.

The Wrights make three plantings a year from March to June. From July to November the blooms are cut and shipped to Montreal florist, with 300 dozen gladioli packed weekly at the peak of the season.

POPULAR SHADES

Just as the gladioli season ends, mum cutting begins in October and lasts through January. The mums, unlike the gladioli, are grown in four big greenhouses. The Wrights specialize in 40 of the more than 1,000 varieties of mums. Pastel shades are the most popular, Mr. Wright says.

Mr. Wright, who has grown gladioli since 1944, rotates the five-acre crop on a three-year basis, giving the sandy soil a change and discouraging any disease.

Thrips, a tiny insect that eats leaves and blooms, and dry rot are main enemies of the gladioli grower.

To combat the insect he sprays the plants every 10 days. An overhead irrigation system provides moisture and helps control fall frost damage.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass 5 ♠ Pass

Opening lead — ten of hearts. South's undertaking of the grand slam was somewhat on the ambitious side. Despite North's powerful bidding, it should have appeared rather doubtful to South that he had the 2 to 1 odds in his favor necessary for a grand slam contract.

Declarer won the heart lead and drew two rounds of trumps. The fate of the hand appeared to rest on the adverse diamonds breaking 3-3, since otherwise a club would have to be lost. South, however, had heard about a play called the Vienna Coup. He cashed the ace of clubs.

Two high hearts were next bound to make.

taken, followed by three rounds of trumps. This succession of plays brought dummy down to A-K-Q-5 of diamonds, while declarer's last four cards consisted of three diamonds and the queen of clubs.

On the last trump play East also had to reduce to four cards from his holding of J-10-5-3 of diamonds and the king of clubs. He was squeezed. If he parted with a diamond, dummy would take the last four tricks, while if he discarded the king of clubs, South's queen would become the thirteenth trick.

The key play was made by South when he cashed the ace of clubs before running his tricks in hearts and spades. It will be found that the squeeze does not operate against East if the club ace is permitted to remain in dummy. The North hand would in such case become squeezed instead of the East hand.

Declarer's point of view from the beginning is to rely on one of two possibilities to make the hand. If the diamonds break 3-3, chance number one is fulfilled. If the diamonds break 4-2 or 5-1, the contract is made if the player with the greater diamond length also has the king of clubs.

The second chance matures regardless of whether East or West has the two suits to guard.

Cashing the club ace before running the hearts and spades covers all winning possibilities. If the defenders' cards are favorably divided, the grand slam is made.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

The Stars Say

For Tomorrow
Your progress now will be determined largely by your own approach, conduct and cooperation with associates. In the P.M., benefits can be obtained through new contacts, conferences—even social gatherings.

For the Birthday
If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that the coming year will be an excellent one where both job and financial matters are concerned, but watch the budget carefully next month.

An especially good monetary trend is presaged in your chart for the first four months of 1958.

An avocation of one of your talents may result in some prestige next March, and the period between May and September promises great social and domestic happiness; also good aspects for travel and romance.

A child born on this day will be gregarious and fun-loving, but inclined to go to extremes.

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

Oscar Hammerstein II Writes New Play, Lyrics For Pacific Vehicle

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The tall, mature man in the crew cut was watching the filming of a South Pacific scene more intently than the usual visitor. And no wonder—it was Oscar Hammerstein II. The scene was a dramatic one in which Emile Debeque (Rosano Brazzi) turns down a proposal to spy on the Japanese with Lieut. Joe Cable (John Kerr). Between takes of the long scene, director Jose Logan came over to confer with Hammerstein.

Hammerstein wrote the play with Logan and penned the lyrics to accompany Richard Rodgers' songs. He naturally has a proprietary interest in the movie, and he was making one of his periodic visits to watch over the production.

The scene I watched was remarkably faithful to the original, which I had seen recently on the stage with Mary Martin in her original role.

"Yes, we haven't changed the story much, except to fit it into the cinematic medium," Hammerstein said. "There are some obvious things which you can do with movies but not on the stage."

MUCH THE SAME
It's pretty much the same thing we have done with the other three films that have been made from our musicals. I'm speaking of the shows I did with Dic-I've done some other things in the past that came out far differently.

"But I don't think the studios do that so much any more. When they put out a lot of money for a property, they generally use it."

Of the three R and H musicals filmed so far, Hammerstein said he thought Oklahoma! and The King and I were well done. He had some reservations about Carousel.

What about the other three? "There have been no offers that I know of for them," he said. "I have an idea that some day I may re-work Allegro. I was always very fond of it, but somehow it missed in the second act."

"No, I don't expect to do anything more with Me and Juliet and Pipe Dream. Why? Because I hate them."

There is happy news in the fact that the team is getting busy on a new musical. It will be based on a book about San Francisco Chinatown by C. Y. Lee, The Flower Drum Song. Hammerstein added that Rodgers recovered enough from his recent illness to start work on the music.

News notes: Mike Todd says he has the Don Quixote script licked and he'll start shooting it in Spain next April.

"I found the answer to the script right in Cervantes himself," said the showman. "It's in the book, but Cervantes himself didn't know what he was doing. That's why he was a once-around-Willie."

What's a once-around-Willie? Todd explained that it's a writer who produces only one great work—like Margaret Mitchell and Gone With the Wind.

After Don Quixote, which he says will have a fabulous cast, Todd will make the story of Arturo Toscanini, incorporating the many operas which the maestro conducted. Then he'll make one more picture and quit. Or so he says.

"I know nobody believes it, but just wait and see," Todd said. Longtime friends Montgomery Clift and Marlon Brando are doing their first picture together, but they never act in the same scene. Clift plays an American soldier and Brando a Nazi soldier in parallel stories in The Young Lions.

If there is a large-scale tourist invasion of Japan next year, the reason will be understandable. Hollywood is bringing out two pictures that present the beauties of Japan as they have never been seen on the screen before.

RKO's Escapade is a stunning view of the seaports, interior and cities of the country. The plot is okay, being surprisingly akin to Gene Kelly's recent Road, which took place in France. Both pictures show two runaway drom. The star of Escapade is Japan itself.

On the other hand, Savoyana, a potent story played against backdrop of striking scenery is a modern re-working of Madame Butterfly theme, fully acted by Marlon Brando, Milko Taka, Brando plays down-south accept and de-strates again that he is prob-the screen's best actor.

Aged Driver's Ancient Photos Beats Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Clarissa M. Ludlum, a pert 78, had no trouble talking her way out of a traffic fine. Besides that, court officials said it was an honor "to find such an outstanding driver in our midst."

Mrs. Ludlum was irked by a charge that she failed to yield the right of way in a traffic accident. She said she has been driving for 54 years without an accident and it was her first traffic ticket. Moreover, she said, she had driven all over the U.S. She doesn't drink and she doesn't smoke, Mrs. Ludlum said, and "when I drive, I drive with full attention."

To prove her point, Mrs. Ludlum brought to court photographs of herself driving 1902 and 1912 autos. She said she drives a six-cylinder 1956 car now and has no use for modern eight-cylinder speed.

Toronto Move Against Hoffa Disallowed

TORONTO (CP)—A lack-of-confidence motion against the executive of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (CLC) Local 647, Milk and Bread Drivers Union failed Tuesday night to get on the floor at a closed membership meeting.

A group of members are protesting support given James Hoffa at the recent Miami convention by representatives of the local union.

The group, headed by George Baird, former executive member, tried to introduce the motion but it was ruled out of order. Baird says the four delegates were told to support Hoffa although the majority of the members are against him.
